Scholarship Application Evaluation

Please assign numerical scores to specific areas, then total scores at the bottom for your overall evaluation of this application

Maximum total score is 100

1. Likelihood of Acceptance at an Accredited Institution - Maximum 10 points.

This should be determined from your evaluation of the candidate's graduation records, GED certificate, transcripts, grade point average, work history related to the desired course or study or school, etc. If there is evidence the candidate has already been accepted, or is enrolled with, an accredited institution, the maximum 10 points should be awarded

Points: _____

2. Community Service/Volunteerism, Extracurricular, Employment - Maximum 30 points.

Please evaluate the quality of the applicant's activities in the above areas and assign an overall score. These areas are not to be evaluated separately because individual circumstances may or may not have permitted activity in one or another. For instance, outstanding volunteer work may outweigh a lack of employment history – or vice versa

Points: _____

3. Essay – Maximum 30 points

Please evaluate the essay for clarity, and whether or not you feel it adequately expresses the candidate's educational and career goals, reasons for wanting a scholarship, and any special circumstances. The essay should not exceed one page, should be legible, and should use grammar and spelling in relationship to the applicants educational level.

Points: _____

4. Letters of Recommendation – 15 points maximum each (total 30 points)

Letters should discuss the applicant's demonstrated qualities of character, initiative, honesty, achievement, and leadership. Recommendation letters from schools, employers, and religious or charitable organizations must be typed on letterhead, with full contact information, and signed by the writer. AHMA Scholarship

I am a current freshman at Sul Ross State University. Throughout my time at Sul Ross, I have maintained a 3.0 GPA while also participating in extracurricular activities such as cheer and RHA residence hall association. So far, I have accomplished and completed my first semester of intro to Psychology. My educational goal is to stay focused in order to increase my GPA and become a social worker. It will be challenging at times, but I am determined to reach my goal. My career goal is to become a child advocate because I have a passion for helping the less fortunate that are in foster care.

Receiving this scholarship would help tremendously! Attending college can be expensive for a family of five with a single parent. Not only would it help me achieve my goal of becoming a child advocate, but it would also help financially. I would like to limit the financial stress on my mother as well as the amount of student loans that I will need to receive in order to focus solely on my career path of helping others in the foster care system.

I currently volunteer at the Moody Park Community Center assisting kids that are in the after-school programs with their homework assignment. Working there has helped me realize that my passion is to help any child that wants to stay out of trouble and needs some emotional support. It is my goal to open up a free center like Moody Park where children can come and have fun among their peers. With the help of this scholarship, I will be able to focus on my educational and career goals without the stress of any financial burden.

In closing, I would be grateful if I am chosen as the recipient of this scholarship. I will be sure to honor the scholarship by working hard to achieve my educational and career goals.

To whom it may concern,

Magdolin Bange is a hard-working, bilingual, innovative and inclusive leader. She exemplifies what it means to be a student leader and possesses the ability to think beyond the task at hand and finds innovative ways to create solutions. On top of these outstanding qualities, Magdolin is a very kind young lady who stays heavily involved in her community.

Magdolin exhibits leadership skills daily, volunteering to lead class projects, organizing and scheduling fundraisers, and delegating tasks in stressful situations. She participates in many extracurricular activities, including yearbook, student ambassadors, cheerleading, track and basketball. I have witnessed first-hand her ability to encourage and teach others to do their best work through her roles as the yearbook editor and cheer captain. The aptitude to successfully lead in this way is rare, but Magdolin flawlessly leads others in an inspiring manner while, at the same time, producing her best individual work.

As with any great leader, Magdolin is one of the hardest working students I have ever had in my class. She is always willing to go above and beyond my expectations, seeking a good grade while producing her best work. Not only is Magdolin willing to put in time to be successful, she is also able to balance multiple roles at once. She has been able to secure a spot in the top ten percent of her class while holding leadership roles and competing in varsity cheer, basketball and track.

Magdolin is going to be successful in everything she puts her mind to. I can say this with complete and utter confidence. Every quality she possesses is one of achievement, and when she hits those walls that will try to stop her from achieving her dreams, I know that her drive will continue to push her to be the strongest, hard-working and diverse leader she has always had the potential of becoming.

Sincerely,

Mary Rachel Rawlings

Subject: Recommendation Letter for Magdolin Bange

I am Alicia Trotman, an assistant professor in Psychology at Sul Ross State University. I taught First Year Seminar in Fall 2019 and I met Magdolin (Maggie) Bange for the first time as a freshman student. I was instantly struck by Magdolin's dynamism especially for a student surrounded by peers whom she had known for less than a week, and in a new environment. She did not prevent the novel situation from her ability to communicate her identity and why she wanted to begin her studies at college. For every exercise, Magdolin asked questions to ensure she understood the requirements, and volunteered to help those struggling in class. For one of the class assignments, students had to complete a scavenger hunt to identify all the resources across campus that are designed to help students. Her team came first because she strategically planned how to finish the hunt successfully and she took it seriously. From her performance, I discerned that Magdolin had teamwork, organizational and leadership qualities which are all skills valuable to succeeding in college.

I believe Magdolin's propensities for leadership and teamwork have slowly developed due to practice on the Cheer team, and her previous high school extra-curricular endeavors. I perceive her competencies in practical and analytical intelligence, and if contemplating Gardner, interpersonal and kinesthetic intelligence. She has a unique advantage over other students due to these abilities, and they will serve her well in her future classes. I am eager to see her complete her Introductory Psychology class this semester and look forward to her participating in her future major classes. I believe that Magdolin will be one of our best students in our Psychology program, and I highly recommend her for this scholarship. She possesses diligence, tenacity and sincerity in her personal and collaborative work. If you need further information, please do not hesitate to contact me by email: alicia.trotman@sulross.edu Thank you

Sincerely,

Alicia M. Trotman, PhD
